Something for the Shabbos table

We have brochos before performing many mitzvos; shaking lulav, shofar, Halel, etc. Why do we have no brocha before the mitzvah of recounting the Exodus in Maggid on the Seder Night?

There are many answers given by the Merforshim;

1) Since there is no limit to the performance of this mitzvah, we say that 'the more one speaks about the Exodus, the better,' there is no brocha.

2) Because this mitzvah is an offshoot of the daily mitzvah of remembering the Exodus (Rambam), and perhaps mitzvos which are not based in action, but rather remembering via words, do not have a brocha.

3) There is a rule that we don't make brachos on mitzvos that are between man and man (Bein Adam Lechaveiro], eg no brocha on giving Tzedaka. Perhaps the mitzvah of recounting the Exodus also has an aspect of Bein Adam Lechaveiro, for the obligation is 'to tell your child..' - you have an obligation to your child to let him know of our true roots and our true history and the miracles and kindness Hashem did for us.
