Halocha from the Daf

The Mishnah at the beginning of Moed Katan (2a) rules that community needs may be taken care of during Chol Hamoed. The reason for this leniency is that community needs are not the responsibility of any particular individual, and they are consequently often neglected. During Chol Hamoed people are idle from their regular occupations and can therefore work on community needs. If these projects were not completed during Chol Hamoed they would more than likely not be completed altogether, therefore they are considered akin to Davar ha'aved (lit. a matter that is lost. Davar ha'aved is a leniency that permits melachah on Chol Hamoed to prevent a loss of principle.) Obvious examples of community needs are fixing the roads, irrigation canals, community mikvaos or marking graves. Community needs are not just limited to community projects, any public need that arises regularly, even if when it arises it addresses only the individual, is also considered a public need. For example, the Yerushalmi includes convening a Beis Din to adjudicate a monetary dispute as a public need. The reason is that the community requires a system of justice and the need arises regularly, even though each case addresses only the individuals involved.

Something for the Shabbos table

In this week's Parsha Moshe tells the Bnei Yisroel "...you shall remember Hashem, your G-d; that it was He Who gave you strength to be successful." (8:18)

The Ben Ish Chai, writes: This Possuk teaches us a fundamental concept, i.e. that all that a person receives from this world comes to him from Hashem Himself. It does not come to man through his own strength or handiwork.

However, man's nature is to attribute his success to his own hard work. Therefore, Hashem has given us three mitzvos that remind us that we are not in control of our own physical well-being. Fulfilling these mitzvos helps us recognize that Hashem is the One Who gives us the tools to succeed in life, that everything is His, and that we are always receiving from Him.

One of these is the mitzvah of Shemittah, letting the land lie fallow every seventh year. One who fulfils this mitzvah acknowledges that the Land is not his and that everything belongs to Hashem. Another such mitzvah is Berachos, reciting blessings before eating. By doing so, one acknowledges that everything belongs to Hashem. A third such mitzvah is the prohibition on Ribis/interest and the commandment to give free loans to one's brethren. One who observes this acknowledges that all the money that he has belongs to Him as well.

The initials of these 3 mitzvos spell "בשר / flesh." This reminds us that (in the words of Tehilim 136:25), "He gives nourishment to all flesh." and we are fully dependant on Hashem.
