Interesting Halacha

Does one need to take maaser from presents?

Tosafos (Taanis 9a) quotes the Sifri (Devarim 14:22) who writes that the mitzva of maaser, tithing one's crops, applies equally to other forms of income. While this statement isn't in our editions of Sifri, R' Baruch Epstein (Torah Temima, Devarim 14:22) explains that this is one of many examples of statements of Sifri that the rishonim saw but are now lost to us.

Thus, the Shulchan Aruch (YD 249:1) writes that one should give between 10% and 20% of one's earnings to help the poor. The Taz (YD 331:32) adds that this applies equally to wedding gifts that one receives, even from one's own parents (See Rabbeinu Yona, Sefer Hayira 213).

While this applies to money gifts, R' Shmuel Vosner (Shevet Halevi 5:133:7) writes that if one inherited a property or if one's parents paid towards buying them a flat, one wouldn't need to give maaser.

R' Moshe Feinstein (Igros Moshe YD 2:112) and R' Moshe Sternbuch (Teshuvos Vehanhagos 3:282) write that one may stipulate when giving a gift that it should be used for a specific purpose. Thus, one supporting their children could stipulate that they shouldn't give maaser from the money they were giving.

In conclusion, one should give maaser from any money that one earns, including as gifts, unless it was given for a specific purpose.

Something for the Shabbos table

The parsha starts by telling us that Hashem spoke to Moshe on Har Sinai. Then it goes on to talk about Shmita. Rashi asks, "Mah Inyan Shmita Eitzel Har Sinai"; what does Shmita have to do with Har Sinai.

He answers that this teaches us just like all the halachos of Shmita with all the details was given on Har Sinai so too were all the mitzvos and their intricate details.

The Chasam Sofer asks why did the Torah choose specifically the mitzva of Shmita to teach us this lesson?

He answers that the Torah promises the farmers that even though they will not plant during shmita, Hashem will bless them with such an abundant crop the year before that it will last them for three years until the next crop is ready. This is a mitzva that is obviously given from Sinai directly from Hashem and not invented by man, for who else would dare make such a promise other than Hashem alone. Therefore, the Torah tells us, just like Shmita was clearly given over by Hashem on Har Sinai so too were all the other mitzvos.
