Something for the Shabbos table

In this week's Parsha Moshe tells the Bnei Yisroel "...you shall remember Hashem, your G-d; that it was He Who gave you strength to be successful." (8:18) The Ben Ish Chai, writes: This Possuk teaches us a fundamental concept, i.e. that all that a person receives from this world comes to him from Hashem Himself. It does not come to man through his own strength or handiwork. However, man's nature is to attribute his success to his own hard work. Therefore, Hashem has given us three mitzvos that remind us that we are not in control of our own physical well-being. Fulfilling these mitzvos helps us recognize that Hashem is the One Who gives us the tools to succeed in life, that everything is His, and that we are always receiving from Him. One of these is the mitzvah of Shemittah, letting the land lie fallow every seventh year. One who fulfils this mitzvah acknowledges that the Land is not his and that everything belongs to Hashem. Another such mitzvah is Berachos, reciting blessings before eating. By doing so, one acknowledges that everything belongs to Hashem. A third such mitzvah is the prohibition on Ribis / interest and the commandment to give free loans to one's brethren. One who observes this acknowledges that all the money that he has belongs to Him as well. The initials of these 3 mitzvos spell " / flesh." This reminds us בשר that (in the words of Tehilim 136:25), "He gives nourishment to all flesh." and we are fully dependant on Hashem.
